PERSONAL INFORMATION PROTECTION POLICY

Melford Capitals ("The Company") adheres to the laws and ordinances and other norms about the protection of personal information concerning the personal information of customers, other parties with which it has business relationships, employees, etc., that it handles in the course of its business activities, and shall formulate internal rules and establish structures for the protection of personal information. For that purpose, the Company hereby lays down the Personal Information Protection Policy set out below, and declares that this policy shall be implemented and also revised and improved continuously. The Company shall lay down internal rules such as rules for the protection of personal information, and shall ensure that all Company employees (officers, full-time employees, staff employed on a contract basis, temporary staff, part-time staff, etc.) and other persons involved are made thoroughly acquainted with them, and shall implement them. The Company shall formulate and implement appropriate information-security measures such as those to address illegal access and computer viruses, to prevent the loss, destruction, tampering, leakage, etc., of personal information. When acquiring personal information, the Company shall do so lawfully and fairly and shall state explicitly to, or notify, each person to whom the personal information pertains ("The Principal") of the purpose of use, etc., of that personal information, or shall announce this publicly on the Company's website.

PERSONAL INFORMATION PROTECTION POLICY (CONT'D)

The Company shall restrict the use of personal information to what is necessary for the performance of its business within the bounds of the purpose of use of that information, and shall not use personal information for any purpose other than its purpose of use unless the consent of the Principal is given in advance. Unless the consent of the Principal is given in advance, the Company shall in principle not provide personal information to a third party. In cases such as those in which the Company provides personal information to a third party that it commissions to undertake some business activity on its behalf, or in which personal information is used jointly with an affiliate of the Company, the Company provides the personal information only to persons that it deems appropriate, and only as necessary for the performance of its business and as recognized by law. In necessary confidentiality agreements with the third parties to which it consigns business and at these cases the Company shall conclude these other measures required by law. The Company shall, concerning personal information that it holds, put in place a structure to enable it to respond promptly if the Principal requests disclosure, amendment, suspension of use, etc. The Company shall endeavor to deal appropriately and quickly with any complaint concerning its handling of personal information and shall put in place a structure for this purpose.
